DRIVING CLUB RACES.

nexpectedly Close Finish in the Free-for-All.

The races at the Business Men's Driving Club yesterday were attended by about five hundred people. The track was good and close finishes were the rule. In the 2:20 class Billy Briggs, after being held in the first two heats, succeeded in getting the next two after a hard drive with Little Elgin. The most exciting race of the day was the free-for-all. D. B. Shideler, owning Major, had thought seriously of withdrawing the horse from future events. thinking others had no show to win. A member of the club, knowing of J. C. Sipe's | Buffalo 43 horse Robert C., thought differently and erranged to have Mr. Sipe enter him. Each horse took a heat and then in the third Major won only by a head. Another meeting of the two horses is being planned for next week. Following is the summary:

NEW YORK, June 16 .- The New Yorks forfeited a game to the Brooklyns this afternoon, in the second inning, when the Brooklyns were at the bat, the score at the time being 5 to 1 in favor of the Brooklyns. Umpire Burns, who declared the game forfeited, did so after the locals made life miserable for him. The kicking began in the first inning. The trouble came to a head when Casey, the first Brooklyn batter in the second, was at the plate. Seymour, who was pitching, sent a straight one over the plate that Burns called a ball. Seymour and Warner threw up their hands. Warner was immediately removed. Then came Gleason and this left the home team in a hopeless condition. The game was finally continued and Wilson went in to catch. Coakley, a pitcher, replaced Gleason, and Foster went to short. The first ball pitched by Seymour was a strike, but Wilson stepped to one side and the ball came close to Umpire Burns. He promptly removed Wilson from erate move to allow the ball to hit him. This caused another row and Gleason and Warner were ordered off the ground. They did not go promptly enough to suit Burns and he declared the game forfeited. The forfeiture places the New York club liable to a $1.000 fine, which must be paid to the Brooklyn club, President Ebbetts, of the Brooklyns, said, after the game, that he notified President Young, of the League, before the New York-Brooklyn series began, not to assign Burns to umpire. Both teams left for the West to-night.

THE PRESIDENT VINDICATED. Public Opinion Changing on the Civil-Service Order.

Eustace followed with | cease as soon as friends of civil service reform understood what the order really was, and suggested that when all of the facts team scored three runs, and in the eighth as good a civil service reformer as ever. The prediction is turning out well. more the President's order is studied the to third, and Diggins's long fly brought in notably. After a time the President's amendments to his predecessor's action will Amole allowed Hogriever his base on balls 6,000 employes of the War Department who in the first inning, Stewart sacrificed him will have been taken out of the classified to second, and McFarland's out placed him service by the President's order consist almost entirely of subordinates in engineer, which to make appointments for such places has been found to be practically impossible These subordinates are sometimes selected for a few months' or a few weeks' work.

They are often wanted in emergencies, and in out of the way places. A quartermaster at Fort Sill may be ting out a detachment of troops for the Philippines, and may need some skilled labor to get the troops ready. There is no time to hold examinations and create an eligible list from which to select his help. In the engineer department, especially on river and harbor work, officers of the gov-ernment are compelled often to employ local labor. They must get masons, carpenters, blacksmiths and men of other trades when and where needed. They may employ hun-dreds one month and few the next month. When the engineer department called on the Civil-service Commission during the period the classification was nominally extended over these places, the commission could not supply eligible lists, but was com-pelled to admit this kind of labor would not submit to examination. Good mechanics would not take the trouble to attend exami-

Experience has demonstrated that civil-service system is not applicable to this kind of government employment. By the President's order all persons before being given such employment must submit to an examination as to moral character and fit-ness for the work. But this examination is not competitive and is not under the Civil-service Commission. It is conducted by the army officers who are to employ the labor and who know what requisite qualifications

Indians who serve as police, teamsters, cooks, etc., in the Indian service, special agents of the Land Office and the Indian Bureau, timber inspectors, agents for the allotment of land and men who are employed in making investigations as experts form another class exempted by the President's order. Although it has been demonstrated repeatedly that good cooks cannot be obtained by a written examination, the Civil-service Commission gave more of its time and labor to obtain them at Indian agencies than it devoted to any other branch of the service.

When vacancies occur in the Smithsonian Institution the office seeks the man, and every effort is made to secure the most competent available man in the world. The oficials of the institution were made exempt by the President's order upon the recommendations of the regents, who include such men as Chief Justice Fuller, Professor Langley, President Angell, of Michigan University, ex-Postmaster General Wilson, Alexander Graham Bell and Senator Gray, of Delaware. It is reasonable to assume that tive examination, with the appointment of by S. Loates, beat Lord William Berestore the candidate who passes the best examina-tion, has been found impracticable after two years of trial.

A little incident which occurred recently in one of the scientific departments illus-trates the failure of the old system. A vacancy had been created in one of the departments by the death of an official whose duties were to edit and prepare for publication the reports and writings of scientists and required knowledge of all the natural sciences as well as literary style and editorial work. A gentleman, who for twenty-five years had performed similar services in a publishing house that turned out scientific books, magazines, and similar literature, and well known for his accomplishments in his line of work, was an applicant for the position, and as the office was in the classified service, he submitted to an examination. He and his friends were confident that he would pass at the head of the list. It was beleved that he was better qualified for the position and more competent than the members of the board of examiners, or even the civil-service commissioners themselves. When the papers were read and marked he was rated at 68, and was at the foot of the per cent. examination, a man who had never edited a scientific article, and was without failed had, up to the date of his rating. been an ardent civil-service reformer, an an advocate of the competitive system. For that reason his friends regarded his experience in the nature of a joke.

Must Withhold News.

Washington Special. The other day the War Department received a dispatch from Gen. Otis which for good reasons was not made public. When became known that the department had received a cable and had withheld it from publication, the "yellows" raised a howl about suppressing news and were sure something awful had happened. The next day there appeared dispatches from Washington about the latest "outrage" and how the War Department was trying to hide mportant information from the public. The truth of the matter is that the dispatch from Gen. Otis simply told of a move the army under his command was about to make and asked the department to withhold it until he acted, Gen. Otis says that plans are often hindered by premature publication in the United States, for the day they are made public here they are telegraphed to London and Paris and then sent by the Filipino juntos to the Philippines, and before he can accomplish his purpose the enemy is warned. The department has been so open and free with the news from the Philippines that the officials find now that they are obliged to withhold some dis-

Coupled with Candleback, the Betting on Him Is 2 to 1-Briar Sweet Second Choice-Sloan Unjustly Scored.

NEW YORK, June 16 .- Although Banastar has to take up twelve pounds extra for winning the Brooklyn handicap, he is the popular favorite for the Suburban, which will be run to-morrow at the opening of the spring meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club at Sheepshead Bay. His work Youngstown ... 0 0 1 0 0 0 6 2 0-914 5 has been perfectly satisfactory to his owner, Batteries-Watkins and Donahue; McFarex-Corporation Counsel W. H. Clark, and to his trainer. The public seems to be satisfied as well, and it was the general impression at the race track to-day that, coupled with Candleback, he would be as strong a favorite at post time to-morrow as at any previous chance. Imp, the Western mare, is by no means without friends, particularly on her last race, when she took up a great deal more weight than she will to-morrow and won very handily. That sterling handicap horse, Ben Holladay, is well liked, but there is a general impression that at a longer distance and later in the year he would do better than to-morrow. The California mare, Briar Sweet, has done some fine exercise work and has been specially prepared for this race and it would not be surprising to see her second choice to Banastar. The others are Bannockburn, George Keene, Filigrane, the Morris threeyear old, favorite in the Brooklyn and winner of the Metropolitan. He would have more friends to-morrow had he not been worked so hard this week and sent the Suburban distance, followed two days later by one and one-half miles at top speed. Most of the trainers and horsemen think that such hard work so short a time before the race is too much and he will not have one-tenth the number of friends he had in the Brooklyn handicap. There are a num ber of others whose chances are considered

The rain last night has put the track in the best condition, and the prospects to-morrow could not be better. There can be no excuse for losers beyond lack of speed and staying powers. Every horse is absolutely fit and all want to prevent Banastar from breaking a record by getare the entries:

SLOAN CRITICISED.

Accused of Assaulting a Waiter Who Spilled Liquor on the Jockey.

LONDON, June 16 .- The Star to-day says: 'After the racing yesterday (at Ascot) Sloan appeared on the lawn and a waiter accidentally upset a glass of liquor over Sloan's clothing. The latter instantly arose from his chair and struck the waiter in the face with a champagne bottle, inflicting severe wounds. No doubt the affair will be hushed up, but it was the most unprovoked assault ever witnessed."

The Evening News, without giving any name, says: "He was the guest of a member of the Sports' Club. The waiter was so injured that he was removed to the hospita! in a cab. All the witnesses cried 'Shame!' and ladies struck at his assailant with para-sols. As there is only one jockey now hold-ing a license who could be guilty of such a cowardly and repulsive act while a guest of a member of a club, it would be super-fluous to give his name. The immediate duty of the Jockey Club is to institute inquiries. and, if the facts are as stated, to forth-with withdraw the jockey's license." Talking about the matter with a reporter to-day Tod Sloan said: "The papers have largely exaggerated the affair on Ascot A waiter was very drunk when happened on the lawn with some friends and he grew insulting to my friends and myself, and a friend said that if he continued so doing he would hit him. The waiter disappeared at that moment, when I remarked: 'Now, when he returns, he will upset this table.' Sure enough, he did so, spilling the entire contents over me. One man struck him and his finger ring cut the waiter's mouth. I being the only man known, the people said: 'Oh, Sloan did it,' and seeing the blood, they said I had used the bottle. As to the Jockey Club taking action in the matter, as has been reported there is no truth whatever in the story, for the members know that I have told them the exact truth as to the fellow's action, and was not concerned in striking him at all.' The Times, which prints a paragraph ac cusing Sloan of the assault, says it was expected that he would be charged before a magistrate, but the matter was settled by the payment of £100 ($500) to the injured waiter. Sloan won no races at Ascot to-day. His mounts were unplaced in all the events ex-Detroit 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—1 8 8 they are as much interested in its welfare copt one. Ex-Senator M. J. Egan, who has noticed the reappearance of the passenger pigeon in Wisconsin, has had some correspondence with the Agricultural Department about it. which is full of information. In a letter to the department he says:

"I duly received your acknowledgment of list, while at the top was a man with a 95 | my postal relative to the reappearance of passenger pigeon (Ectopistes migratorius) in Wisconsin after an absence of nearexperience in handling that kind of manu- ly twenty years. The last flock of these inscript. This man, who had a faculty of teresting and beautiful birds that it was my answering the questions propounded by the lot to see came in October, 1880, and then examiners, was rated as superior to the man they disappeared from Wisconsin as if by who had twenty-five years' experience in magic. Not within its limits or those of the work to be performed. The editor who any neighboring State has the passenge pigeon been seen since the date indicate until May 7 of this year, when a large flock put in an appearance at Lime Ridge, Sauk county. A week afterward (May 15) I myself saw a small flock flying westward over the southwest portion of Norway township. in Racine county, about twenty-five miles south by west from Milwaukee. The flock consisted of about 200 birds, and flew approximately 400 yards high. In reply to my question some of the residents of that lo-cality said they had seen a few similar flocks during the week, but none had (as it former times) been noticed in the woods, nor did any alight for the purpose of feeding and drinking, as was their wont in the good old days, being evidently bound for a long journey westward. "Doubtless you have heard and read o the countless myriads of these interesting birds, which literally swarmed in our harves fields and oak groves during all the years prior to 1850, and how frequently their number was so immense as to shut off the sunlight and turn noon into twilight. where did these countless myriads of bird forms betake themselves? Many of our in-telligent bird lovers are of opinion that the and form as therein provided, with interest and cruel and continuous warfare waged against them by so-called civilized men had the per-fectly natural effect of terrifying them so as to cause them to abandon a region where they were met with inhuman slaughter-a slaughter that has no parallel in history save that of the noblest wild animal of the world, the American bison, which the American government permitted and connived at to its eternal disgrace. This is the universal

verdict of the truly civilized people of all nations under the sun, and more especially the fairer sex. Half a century ago a party of English tourists visited the plains (Dakota and Nebraska) in order to behold the herds of buffalo. About one-half of the party

(twelve in all) were bright women, and the

were so disgusted at the thousands of buf

casses on which buzzards and coyotes were feeding that they asked in wonder if the United States had any government, and, if so, why this barbarous alaughter was tolerated."
